

FARMER FOODSHARE

Donation Station Internship

Greensboro Farmer's Curb Market

Saturdays: ASAP through 08/10/2019

Farmer Foodshare connects people who grow food to people who need it through local farmer's markets. Here's how it works: customers donate produce to the Donation Station table at the market, then we donate the collected produce to local hunger relief organizations. The farmers make some extra sales and the food gets out to those who need it – everyone wins! Join a team of UNCG volunteer interns who run this station year-round!

Responsibilities (2 or more shifts per month):

1. Manage the Donation Station at Greensboro Farmers Curb Market on Saturdays (7:00am-12:30pm) 2x/month (0-6 hrs/week) Must have transportation and be able to list up to 40 pounds*
2. Attend a Donation Station training
3. Supervise any volunteers scheduled during your shift
4. Complete a creative project of your choice (e.g. host a kid's event at a market, teach cooking lessons with a recipient organization, make a video, update market display, etc.)

Qualifications:

1. Interest in food insecurity, nutrition, non-profit and community studies or related areas
2. Detail-oriented, dedicated, timely, and responsible
3. Excellent communication skills, including conversation with strangers
4. Morning person!

Benefits:

1. Structured resume-building experience with a respected NC non-profit
2. Possible course credit or service-learning credit (up to you to arrange)
3. Networking and mentorship opportunities in local food systems, food security, agriculture, public health, nutrition, and education
